MARRIED ABOARD SHIP. (Special to The Washington Times.)

SAN DIEGO, Gal., Dec. 19.—Paymasington, D. C., a daughter of the late Commander Robert Ray, were married abourd the Adams here yesterday. The marriage of these well-known young people is the outcome of a pretty romance. The two have been friends since youth.

The reception lasted from 9 until 11 fere?

Until a short time ago, the groom was a teller in one of the Washington banks. He was then appointed to the navy, and ordered to sea. The engagement was known only to a few, and last week, Mrs. Ray and her daughter arrived here to meet the Adams. The mother and a few friends of the groom witnessed the ceremony. During the ship's stay along the coast, Mrs. Hagner will reside in San Diego.

TO PROTECT ITS NAME.

.The Right Worthy District Grand late yesterday aftenoon filed proceedings in the Supreme Court of the District to restrain James T. Bond, Mathias Hunter, Simon S. Washington and Robert J. GOOD TIME TO READJUST THE MONROE DOCTRINE

-HENRY WATTERSON. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 19.—In the "Courier Journal" this morning Henry Watterson advocates breaking loose from the Monroe Doctrine. In

"This is as good an opportunity as another for the Government of the United States, and, back of the Government, for the people of the United States, to consider the Monroe Doctrine, its origin and meaning, its import and intention, with the serious purpose of readjusting it, if need be, to prevailing national and internal conditions, "It was a noble association, it was a timely declaration, yet it took no account of imperialism in Brazil nor of royalty in Canada, perhaps because we had little to fear from the Portuguese, while England was our actual ally

"A chance collision in the Caribbean Sea, an accident on land or water, would arouse the hot blood of the belligerent and unthinking to a degree which would probably browbeat the wisest Cabinet and defy the most farseeing statesmanship, both in and out of Congress. Why? Because we are touched upon a point which our honor will not brook. For what? For a riffraff of Latins who hate us and of mengrels in abject ignorance and degradation and a territory we shall never be able to acquire and not worth the acquiring if we should ever be able.

"These questions are bound to be settled sooner or later. Shall it be peace or war? We want the canal. Let us take it, and, if occasion require, isthmus, Central America and all. If Germany wants to obtain land and set up colonies in South America, why not? If England wants the same down about Argentina, why not? Always tree trade for the United States—free trade for the United States. Why not? Anyhow, instead of nursing a wanton, senseless, hypocritical jingoism-meaning nothing but froth in some and fustian in others-is it not the part of an enlightened, self-respecting sagatity to begin to cast about us where we are at and to revise our position with the view of adjusting it to the altered conditions which mark the difference between 1823 and 1902.

A Timely Suggestion.

The funeral of Samuel S. Graham, who the prudent and careful housewife re disappeared from his home at 728 Twenty-second Street northwest on October 124, and whose body was found in Rock Creek a few days ago, was held at his late home this morning. Services were conducted by the Rev. L. B. Wilson, D. D. Interment was made in Rock Creek Cemetery.

It was learned yesterday that Graham told some companions on the morning before his disappearance that he was going to the creek to cut willows, and the parents of the boy concinde that while contains no harnful substance. It is parents of the bank he fell in the creek. Coroner Nevitt Indorsed this view of the matter, and issued a certificate of death by accident.
